The Forthcoming Play at Niblo's. "Leatnerstocking," dramatized by Mr. George Fawcett Rowe, from James Fenimore Coopers ovel, "The Last of the Monicans," is to be prought out at Niblo's on Monday night. It is contained in three acts, of which the first is ar acters. It is constructed with a view to scenie effect and primeval tableaus, and it would therefore scarcely be fair to demand that it should possess to a high degree that kind of dramatic merit in which the force of high and clearly defined idealizations is felt. In other words, the play has, we suspect, a stronger affinity for the wardrobe, the stage carpenter and the scene painter than with classic dramatic literature. One of the principal male characters, Hawk-Eye, or Leatherstocking. to be borne by Mr. Rowe. It is Mr. Carlyle whe pronounces this character "the one melodious synopsis of man and nature in the West." Readers of Cooper will remember how Leatherstocking appears in "The Pioneers" and closes his career in "The Prairie." We believe that Mr. Rowe has borrowed some of his phraseology from both of these novels, as well as from "The Last of the Monicans." The remainder of the cast is as follows:—

The remainder of the cast is as lollows:

Gilmore will hold forth again with his Twentysecond Regiment Band at the Grand Opera House on Sunday. Standigl, Jr., has inherited from his father a remarkable bass voice, and Vienna was the first city to learn the fact. Dr. J. Jay Villiers gives what he announces as a humorous lecture next Monday and Wednesday evenings, at Association Hall.

The Strakosch Italian opera season in Boston has been unprecedentedly successful. The receipte were larger than ever known before in this country. Not only Mme. Nilsson but the general excellence of the company received liberal patronage. On Friday evening next the company appear Mile. Anna de Belocca, daughter of the Councillor of State to the Imperial Court of Russia, is the reigning sensation of the day in Paris, under the management of Maurice Strakosch. Her success at Les Italiens was of the most emphatic kind. Her Rosina in "Il Barbiere," with her mezzo sopranc voice of exceptional beauty and compass, fresh and exquisite in its tones, created an undoubted furor. The King of Hanover, who was present on the occasion, sent for the young artiste to his box and complimented her. She sang in the "Singing Lesson," a beautiful Russian air, and a charming song by the Baroness Rotuschild.

The rehearsal of the Philharmonic Society at the Academy of Music yesterday was numerously attended. The concert takes place this evening. The programme is as follows :- Overture. "Michel Angelo, Gade. Concerto for the violin, op. 64, in E. Mendelssohn, with orchestral accompaniment-1. Allegro moito appassionato; 2. Andante; 3. Allegro molto vivace—Mr. Henry Wieniawski. Allegro ma non troppo; 4. Allegro con Spirito. The Orchestra (London) describes the obsequies

The Orchestra (London) describes the obsequies of a great artiste in the following terms:—

The remains of Mme. Parepa-Rosa were interred on January 26 in Highgate Cemetery. The procession leit Warwick Crescent shortly before eleven o'clock, and coasisted of three meurning carriages. In the first of these were Mr. Carl Rosa, Mr. James Howeli, Mr. Edward Howeli and Mr. E. Hogarth; in the second were Dr. Brace, Mr. Cowen, Mr. Evans and Mr. Jackson, and the third coach was occupied by the lathilul companion of Mme. Rosa for many years and by the household servants, the cortige being brought up by private carriages sent by Dr. Wylde, Dr. Bruce, the Rev. Mr. Barnard, &c. At Highgate a very large assembly awaited the arrival of the mournful procession, and the scene both in the chapel and round the grave during the solemn service was touching in the extreme, a large proportion of those present making no attempt to conceal their great sorrow. Prominent among those on the spot were Sir Michael Costa, Mr. Santley, Mr. Ganz, Mr. Patey, Mr. W. S. Gilbert, Mr. Bennett, Mr. Gruneisen, Signor Travent, Mr. Sidney Naylor, Mr. Chatterton, Mr. C. Lyall, Mr. F. Berrer, Mr. Nordblom, Mr. W. D. Davison, Mr. Randegger, Mr. Edward Murray, Mr. Hersee, Mr. Pearson, &c. The widely-spread affection with which Madame Parepa-Rosa was regarded by all classes of her profession was further evidenced by the number of the members of the chorus who sy their presence testified their deep regret for her loss. The heavy oaken component was, on being lowered into the grave, covered with whose provincial career the name of Rosa has been identified.
